

FREE!

HAPPY NEWS

ENGLAND

'Brie' careful! Meet this year's cheese rolling champs

Every year, hundreds of people run down a steep hill in Gloucester chasing a wheel of cheese. People from all over the world come to take part in the famous cheese rolling race! Matt Crolla, from Manchester, won the first race. The women's race was won by Delaney Irving, who had travelled all the way from Canada to take part! Cheese rolling is an extreme sport, so please don't try it at home!

Your weekly round up of the funny, wonderful and strange news from across the globe!

UK

Haha! The UK's funniest joke revealed

Classes from across the country were given the chance to submit their funniest jokes as part of Beano's Britain's Funniest Class contest! The top 10 jokes were then chosen and put to the public vote. The winning joke was submitted by 10 year old Oliver from Nottingham. Drum roll please... "What happened to the math teacher's garden? It grew square roots!" The joke won with a whopping 51% of the public vote.

ROMANIA

World's biggest T-shirt is made from plastic bottles

The world's biggest T-shirt has been made in Romania and it is the size of a rugby pitch! The record breaking T-shirt can't be worn (unless you're a giant!) It is made of recycled materials to encourage people to recycle more. The T-shirt is designed in the colours of the Romanian flag - red, blue and yellow.

USA

Gotta visit them all! Streets named after Pokemon in Las Vegas

A new housing estate in Las Vegas, USA, has named its streets after Pokemon characters. Street names include Snorlax Lane, Jigglypuff Place and Squirtle Lane. The housing company, called Harmony Homes, also have another housing development with streets named after Paw Patrol. Would you like to live on Rubble Lane?

Boy climbs 12 mountains for charity

Six year old Oscar Burrow has just finished climbing his 12th mountain for charity! Oscar has now climbed the highest peaks in England, Wales and Scotland, raising £31,000 for Derian House Children's Hospice. The money he has raised will help poorly children go on holiday. Oscar says he wants to be the youngest person ever to climb Mount Everest!

